About Conference

In recent years, the Pharmaceutical/Biotech industry has undergone radical changes which have increased our understanding of drug discovery and development, however there are still many hurdles that the industry face. The gap between a laboratory discovery and an approved drug on the market is a decade-long process of laboratory testing, evaluation in animal models and human clinical trials that can cost hundreds of millions of dollars. Our conference aims to bridge the gaps in approval for drug discovery and development by discussing the latest scientific breakthroughs, exploring novel technologies and approaches that can be used to overcome drug discovery and development challenges and bring together the scientific communities who will highlight future opportunities for novel therapeutic discovery and development. Now is the time to invest and join us in April for

School of Pharmacy, Abhilashi University inaugural Drug Discovery and Development conference.
